Mortgages - First time and Refinancing

Marc Halliburton, Mortgage Advisor at Alpine Mortgage

Before you refinance your mortgage or embark on a new fixed-term loan, it's a good idea to make sure you understand all the in's and out's of the process. There are many situations where home loan refinancing can be a benefit to you; from saving thousands with a better loan rate, consolidating debt, reducing monthly payment, reducing risk (variable to fixed), to tapping into your home equity; refinancing could be the solution to your problems. Things to consider as you evaluate your options include pre-payment penalty, closing fees, transaction fees, interest impact and up-front, ongoing, and potentially variable costs associated with mortgage loans. Whether a seasoned home owner or new to the market, attend this meeting to benefit from this timely discussion.
